ABOUT DR. RUSH

Dr Rush is the last born of the great-grandchildren of—former slave, turned famous educator, and founder of Tuskegee University—Booker T. Washington.

Inspired by her famous lineage—when speaking around the country to individuals, small groups, or large audiences —she is known to parallel her compelling story of overcoming tremendous difficulties, with her great-grandfather's historical rise above slavery.

She is naturally able to captivate people with her strong, but gentle spirit. They not only walk away with a deep desire to reach higher ground, but they also gain insight on how to build upon “tried and true” foundations that were laid by ancestors many years ago.

Dr. Rush is an author, speaker, and educator on rising above difficult circumstances, self-improvement, personal empowerment, mental health, and more. She's taught psychology courses as an adjunct professor. She's been featured in magazines and newspapers, and appeared on television and radio, highlighting the life and work of her great-grandfather, along with her personal rise above challenging circumstances.

Dr. Rush earned a doctorate degree in organizational leadership, and a master's degree in psychology. She has over twenty years of combined experience in these areas.
